Over the past few months, we've been exploring what it means to live out your faith in your business—not just on the margins, but at the core.

In July, we focused on your Kingdom calling—how your business can serve a redemptive purpose in the world.

In August, we looked at redeeming your time, using tools like AI to eliminate wasted effort so you can focus on what matters most.

Now in September, we're asking the deeper question: What story is your work telling?

Section 1: "The Voices at Work"

Individual Reflection: "What's the loudest voice in your head when you're working?"

(Is it: "Don't screw up"? "Prove you're worth it"? "Keep hustling"? "Make it count"? "You're not enough"? "Do it for them"? "This matters to God"?)

Table Discussion:

- Where do you think that voice comes from?
- How has it shaped your relationship with your work?
- What voice do you want to be hearing more clearly?

Section 2: Brad Schmidt on "The 4 Chapter Gospel"

Brad Schmidt serves as Lead Pastor at CityChurch Fort Lauderdale and plays a regional leadership role with Made to Flourish, a network of pastors dedicated to integrating faith and vocation. Additionally, he holds the title of Executive Vice President of Equip - Faith & Work at NCF South Florida, where he leads initiatives like Lifework Leadership—an eight-month program designed to help professionals connect their Sunday faith with Monday work. His experience spans both spiritual formation and marketplace engagement, especially within influential business and ministry communities across South Florida.

Section 3: Discussion Questions

Use these questions to guide deeper, honest conversation after the video. The goal is clarity, encouragement, and Spirit-led action.

1. Creation – The Right View of Work

In what ways have you seen your work as good, sacred, and beneficial—and where have you struggled to believe that's true?

2. Fall – The Realistic View of Work

How has sin—whether your own or others'—distorted your relationship with work?

3. Redemption – The Restful View of Work

What would change if you approached your work from a place of rest and security in Christ rather than self-justification?

4. Restoration – The Eternal View of Work

If your work today might become part of God's New Creation, how would that change the way you approach it tomorrow?
